Delaware Riverkeeper Network celebrates World Fish Migration Day

Organization to highlight water quality improvements in the Delaware River and urge for greater protections

WHAT: Press Conference

WHEN: June 7 at 12:30pm

WHERE: Penn Treaty Park, 1301 N Beach St, Philadelphia, PA 19125

The Delaware Riverkeeper Network (DRN) will be holding a press conference on June 7, 2018 at Penn Treaty Park to honor World Fish Migration Day and to bring attention to the critical importance of continued water quality improvements for our rivers, migratory fish, and the overall health of our communities. Speakers will talk about water quality improvements, the significance of water quality to the community, and call for stronger protections and improvements for water quality standards.

The speakers at this event will be:

- Maya K. van Rossum, Delaware Riverkeeper Network
- Dr. Erik Silldorff, Delaware Riverkeeper Network
- Jeff Tittel, New Jersey Sierra Club
- Tarsha Scovens, Let's Go Outdoors
- Dave Dickens, Valley Forge Trout Unlimited

Prior to the press conference, 15 concerned community members, business owners, and educators from Pennsylvania and New Jersey will join DRN and kayak from Palmyra Cove Nature Park, NJ to Penn Treaty Park.
